Honorable Ortrie D. Smith, Chairman
Committee on Financial Disclosure
Judicial Conference of the United States
One Columbus Circle, N.E.

Dear Mr. Chairman:

It has recently come to my attention that there was an incorrect inclusion of a reference to "Quintiles stock" in my 2001 and 2002 financial disclosure reports. I am enclosing a letter from the CPA, who assisted me in the preparation of those reports, outlining his error. Please accept this as a proposed amendment to the 2001 and 2002 reports to correct and remove the reference to Quintiles stock, and, to the extent necessary, to have the 2000 report show that there is no value in any Quintiles stock at the end of that reporting period.

If I need to submit any additional documentation or forms for this correction, please let me know.

Yours sincerely,

Terrence W. Boyle

Dear Judge Boyle,

This letter will summarize the communications we have had over the past several days concerning the Quintiles shares shown on the 2001 and 2002 Financial Disclosure Reports (FDR) we prepared for you.

The Quintiles shares at issue were owned within your IRA account, and this letter addresses only those shares. Based on our communications and review of the records in our files, it is clear that you did not actually own those shares during either of those years. I cannot remember these events exactly but from my notes and knowing how I typically process information, I offer the following explanation as to why those shares were erroneously shown on those reports.

The first year for which we prepared your FDR was 2001; that FDR was filed in 2002. Therefore, there was some learning curve involved as we became familiar with the report, your financial information, the methodology of reporting, the flow of data from year-to-year, etc.

When we prepared your FDR for the 2001 reporting period, which is dated 2002, we did have the 2000 FDR, which was not prepared by us, available. There may have been some confusion because the 2000 FDR, on page 5, includes an entry for Quintiles shares with valuation entries in Column C, which would indicate shares were owned with a valuation method as of the end of 2000. There are also entries indicating a sale of Quintiles shares during 2000. As we prepared the 2001 FDR, we referred to your 2001 IRA statement from Wachovia Securities and noted that Quintiles was not listed as one of the holdings. I have a note in the file to ask you about this security but, unfortunately, I do not show resolution of the issue. Apparently, we included Quintiles in your 2001 FDR based upon the entry in the 2000 FDR indicating shares were owned at the end of 2000.

During the preparation of your 2002 FDR, we must have confirmed that you did not own any shares in Quintiles during the previous year, although I do not have any notes in the file concerning this matter. Based upon the disposition date of June 30, 2002, shown in the 2002 FDR, I assume my office determined that the most expeditious manner to remove those erroneous shares from the FDR was to show the sale of shares in 2002. We often use the date of June 30 when we do not have a specific date to use for a transaction.

I sincerely apologize for any problems this error has caused you. It is clear to me that the mistake on both reports was mine. I should have been more diligent in my pursuit of information about the Quintiles shares for the 2001 report and then there would not have been an error in the report for either year.

If you require additional information from me, please let me know.

Sincerely,

RSM McGladrey, Inc.
