Thanks for joining our reporting network. Here’s what we’re asking of our partners:

1. If you reach out to the tipster, please make it clear you received their tip from Reveal.

The tipsters shared their information with us. To avoid confusion, it’s important to tell them you learned about them through Reveal. Also: Please follow SPJ’s code of ethics, available here.

2. In your story, credit Reveal for having provided the tip.

Use the following credit language:

   This story was based in part on ongoing reporting by Reveal from The Center for Investigative Reporting, a nonprofit investigative newsroom. To learn more about the reporting network and how to get involved, head over to revealnews.org/network.

3. Embed the tip form in all digital versions of your story.

This allows tips to continue flowing in from your own stories. Byard Duncan, Reveal’s engagement reporter, will provide you with an embed code for the form as you near publication. Reach him at bduncan@revealnews.org.

4. You are responsible for editorially and legally vetting any stories created as a result of the tips.

We are not responsible for the content of your stories and cannot be held legally responsible for the content you publish or broadcast as a result. By signing up for the network, you agree to indemnify Reveal.
5. Let us know you’ve published.

We want to follow your work. Once you’ve completed a story, we’d love to share it on our social media channels and in our email newsletter.

6. Pitch us if you find something particularly noteworthy.

We may produce a radio segment based on the network’s stories at some time in the future. Let us know if you think you have a story that would make for good radio.

One final note
If you don’t see a tip near you on the spreadsheet, that doesn’t necessarily mean there aren’t work-based rehabs in your area. We encourage you to use the other resources we’ve provided to dig into this issue at the local level – and keep checking back for new tips as we add them.
